Statement on Coronavirus: Currently we are monitoring the evolving situation around the coronavirus (COVID-19). Due to increasing uncertainty and to help protect the health and safety of our members, volunteers, partners, and everyone who takes part in our events, IDUG will be postponing all events scheduled to take place through the month of June. This includes the IDUG Db2 Data and AI Tech Summit in India and the North American Tech Conference in Dallas. We will continue to monitor and assess the situation moving forward, and we will communicate any changes or updates on our website and via email. All of our determinations will be made based on the latest guidelines provided by public health authorities, including the World Health Organization (WHO) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). If you have any questions regarding our policies or procedures around this issue, please contact us at idug@idug.org.

Common questions around IDUG articles

Do I need to pay to access articles?

No. You only need your general IDUG account.

Do I need to be a speaker to write an article?

Not at all, everyone is welcome to share an article.

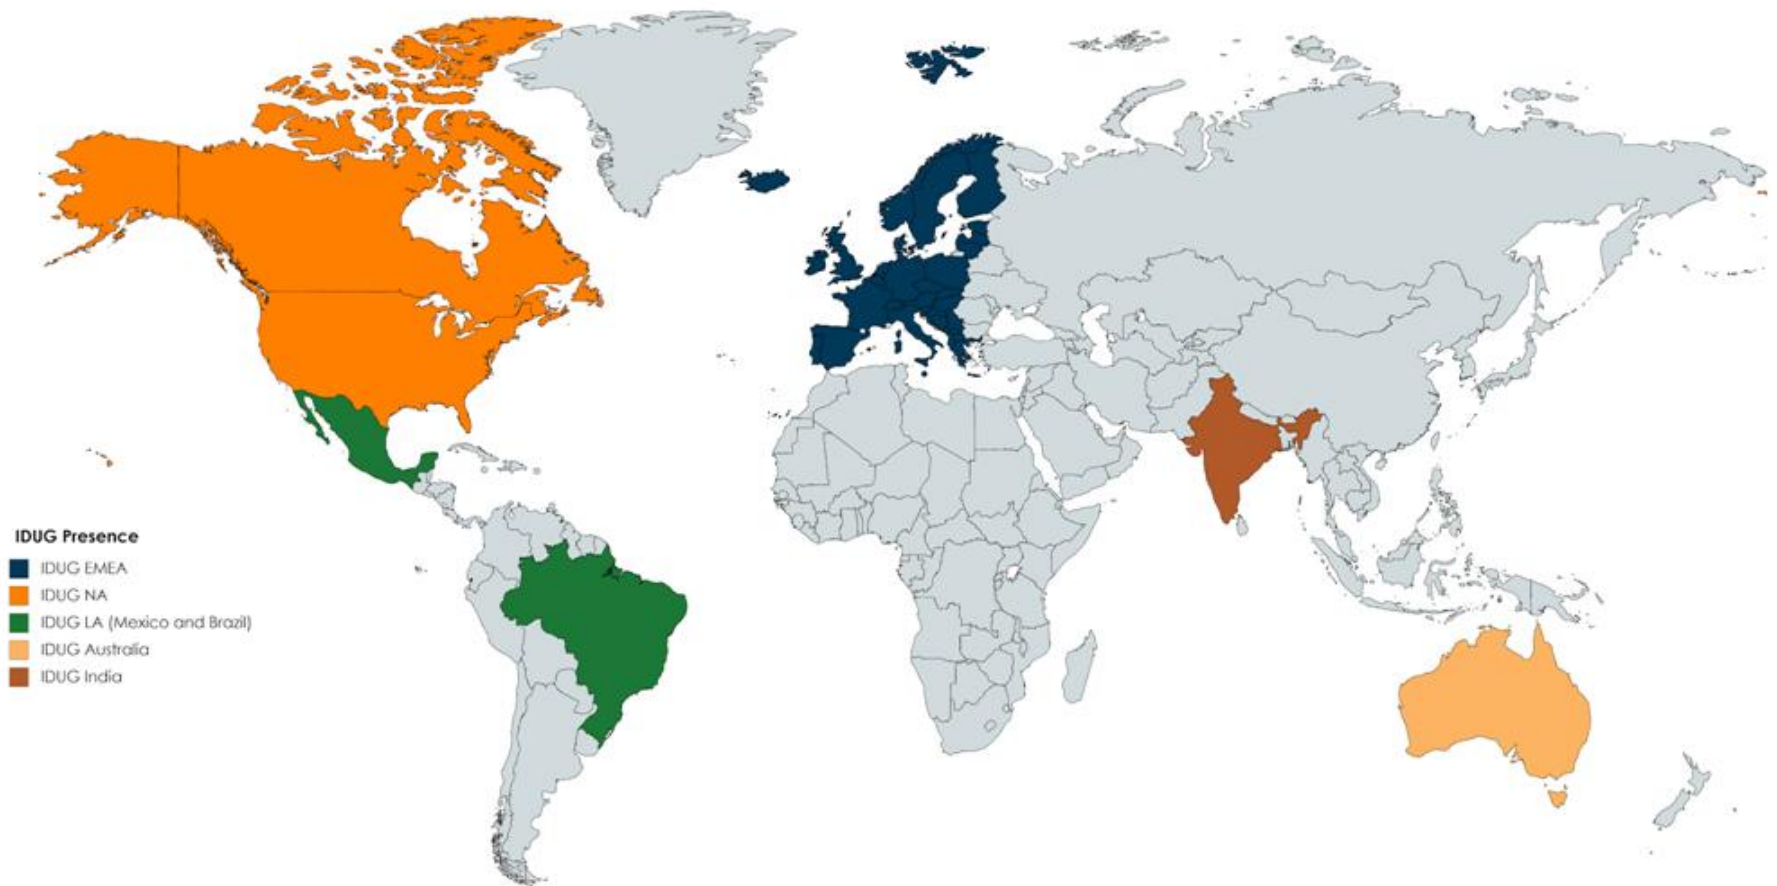

Does my content have to align with the monthly topic?

Not necessarily, we have several blogs to fit your content.

What can I write about?

We especially welcome all war stories with lessons you learned in the process.

IDUG and RUGs

What's coming for User Groups?

For RUG leaders, soon you'll be able to have the following:

- A page for your RUG inside the IDUG portal
- Unified access and distribution of your content (no need for extra work for specific pages)
- Easier ways to see and add calendar events for your RUG meeting dates

Monthly bulletin and other goodies

Have you heard about the webcast portal?

That's right, you'll also have content on webcasts on a variety of hot topics. Look for this icon in your monthly bulletin:

Db2 WEBCAST PORTAL

Check it out! For sure you'll find at least one webcast of interest.

Monthly bulletin and other goodies (cont.)

- The monthly e-bulletin is pushed out to an email list once a month; sign up for an idug.org account and start receiving it!
- It's a great summary of everything discussed today, a monthly rollup of the hottest content, articles, blog posts, and upcoming events.
- Past copies can be found on idug.org.

Getting involved with IDUG

We're always looking for people to join in one or more of our teams:

- Web team
- Conference Planning Committee (regional)
- Content Committee

You can choose how you want to join the IDUG community.

IDUG is what you make of it

Experiences in the Content Committee

If you regularly read the IDUG forums and you want to:

- Share your stories.
- Share your interests and stay current.
- Raise awareness of topics trending on your site.
- Learn more on a wide range of topics in Db2 (and not only Db2).
- Meet the Db2 industry leaders.
- Find material you can later present at IDUG events.
- Do all the previous points from your home or anywhere.

The IDUG Content Committee could be your place!

How I got here: Javier's story with IDUG

“Joining IDUG has been the best investment I’ve made in my career.”

When I got my first Db2 certification, I looked into the IDUG forums on a daily basis to try to solve other people's questions. (and it keeps me focused on real Db2 and not just theory)

Over time, I found a spot in the IDUG Content Committee to share articles. (and it helped me stay current with my education)

Thanks to the CC, I got a recommendation and became an IBM Champion. (and I’ve been an IBM Champion for three years)

Trying new limits, then I decided to try presenting at Db2 RUGs and IDUG events. (and in doing so, I found a new passion)

How I got here: Dustin's story with IDUG

“Volunteering with IDUG has helped my career immensely; the networking and education have kept me on top of all of the latest happenings with Db2. As an added benefit, I have met tons of new friends and seen tons of new places”

- I came to my first IDUG back in 2012 after attending another conference and was immediately impressed with how the conference was run and the benefits it offered.
- My co-worker was a member of the NA CPC at the time and convinced me to apply.
- Once a member of the CPC, I realized all of the cool and great things going on with IDUG and with each passing year, I only want to get more involved.
- I have been on the NA CPC since 2016 and have held nearly every role possible within it: I am now the chair in 2020.
- Thanks to the CPC, I am now an IBM champion.
- Also thanks to the CPC, I was inclined to get more involved in my local RUG and am now vice chairman.
- The CPC has also led me to present several times at IDUG and at local RUGs and other meetings, sharpening my presentation skills.
